IN THE REALM OF THE FEMINE

Toilet Needfuls

"GLADYS" wrote me a long letter the other day, asking me to give her a list of things needed on the dressing table. She explained, naively, that she has had a wonderful new dressing table given her for her eighteenth birthday, and she wants to fit it up with all the toilet things needed, so she can be as frivolous and grown up and feminine as she wants.

There are a thousand and one things for the toilet table—each equally dainty and appealing. The beauty seeker needs only a few, however.

Well, I should say she wanted, first, a pretty powder box right on top, for that little hurried dab of powder that a girl always finds she needs, as sure as she approaches a mirror. For this, as she says she is quite dark, she wants to buy a box of dark brunette face powder—to cost from fifty cents clear up to as many dollars as she has. And she wants to choose her perfume carefully, and never use any but that one odor in all her toilet preparation.

Then she wants a box of talcum, probably this will be twenty-five cents, and a jar of cleansing cream and one of fish-building cream. Allow a dollar for both. Next, a nail bleach, a cuticle remover, a bit of pumice, some nail polish—all these add up to eighty-five cents. Then, a cake of dry, dark rouge—but she must never use it if she can help, this is only for emergencies! This is fifty cents. A lip stick, white vaseline—never paint your lips—an eyebrow pencil—also for emergencies.

These, however, are the first needfuls to buy. And Gladys needs only a few of these, though she wants even more.

Questions and Answers

Will you tell me how to clean a white wool coat, also a Panama hat? Thanking you.—Red Head.

Reply—While this is not in my department, I am glad to be of service to you. The white wool coat may be washed in a lather made from raw starch dissolved in gasoline. Rinse in fresh gasoline till clear. The hat—if it is a real Panama—can be washed in clear water, using a soft scrubbing brush. If you rub moistened flour of sulphur into it and place it in the sun to dry, it will bleach it, or any other straw hat. Brush out the sulphur after the bleaching is over.

Elmer—Will you tell me how to reduce the size of my cheeks—they are too fat.—T. M. E.

Reply—Massaging them will take off the fat. This same method will also build up thin cheeks. To reduce them, you would use but a small amount of cream with the massage—enough only to soften the skin, so it would not get flabby. Wash plenty of cold water on them and rub dry to harden the skin and tone the muscles. If you want massage directions, send a stamped, addressed envelope.
